About Pipes Wagga

The Wagga Pipes Committee is excited to introduce a new-look format for the 2012 event. It will now be held over two days with the first day being an Expo. The Expo will consist of trade display booths with regular industry presentations taking place to showcase their products.

The objective of Pipes Wagga is to provide engineers and practitioners with practical skills and tools to assist in dealing with pipes. Pipes Wagga aims to challenge delegates to examine their daily work practices and asks them to discuss how to ensure more efficient methods are always applied.

The feature of Pipes Wagga has always been the quality presentations relevant to the industry and the sharing of actual experiences, live field demonstrations such as relining, pipe cracking, data equipment and the opportunity to network with industry members, suppliers, contractors and much more.

Pipes Wagga is relevant to planners, local authorities, engineers, environmentalist, scientists, researchers, contractors and equipment suppliers, service contractors and project managers.

Pipes Wagga is a non commercial event and has an ongoing commitment to the education, training and placement of industry personnel through scholarships and workplace training.

Pipes Wagga also contributes to the publishing of industry manuals and supports charity projects for water related issues for underprivileged communities.

Exhibitors are accessible to delegates at one venue to enable "real life matters" to be shared, discussed and resolved in a practical and realistic environment.
